Comments: I have lived in Alaska since 1981.

Snow machining has been a family activity since then. I used to ride with my father and now I ride with my son. I hope my son will someday be able to take his children to these areas as well. We are responsible backcountry users. I strongly oppose any measures that would limit any access to any user groups. This is public land and it should be made available to the public, no matter how they choose to access it.

If any measure needs to be made to accommodate multiple users I would be fine with restricting modified exhaust but that would be the only restriction that I would consider reasonable.

Very Respectfully,

Tim Cashman
