Comments: I snowmobile, atv, hunt, fish, trap, and WALK in the chugach and have for 45 years. My family and I utilize and respect the forest on a daily basis. We have a cabin in the caribou hills that we spend many weeks a year in, and snowmobile lost lake, crescent lake, snow river, nellie juan, resurrection pass, (when i'm not regulated out of it) turnagain pass and everywhere in between on a daily basis. I have raised five children to respect the forest and its natural inhabitants and to enjoy and appreciate its natural splendor without leaving a trace. Over the past forty five years I have seen it all, but mostly I see people just like me. People that want to show their family and friends what the true Alaska is all about. Also I find that the people that want to keep us from enjoying this form of recreation have never seen anything that compares to the awesome scenery that I enjoy on my snowmobile everyday.

The facts are obvious if you actually spend time in the back country. Motorized use of our god given land has no harmful affect on the land or its natural inhabitants and needs no further regulation of any kind. These are not the opinions of a person with a personal dislike of modern machinery, they are the factual findings of a family that actually lives and loves the Chugach national forest. In conclusion I will reiterate. NO MORE REGULATION !!!! ENOUGH IS ENOUGH!!!!
