Comments: To whom it may concern, I am a life long Alaskan born and raised and a extreme snow machine enthusiast. I have exploring Alaska my entire life while riding snow machines, my brother and his dad and family got me into riding at a young age and I fell in love with the sport. I want to continue and give my kids to come that option and let them witness and enjoy Alaska at it finest. Restricting the land to snow machine riders is going to effect a lot more than just people not being happy, that's going to completely change the income for Alaska, dealerships and sales are going to decrease and same with fuel sales. Hundreds of people ride every weekends, that's a lot of revenue during the winter months. Lots of enthusiasts travel to Alaska to do just the same thing and experience the backcountry. Option B would best suit us Alaskans and other adventures and snow machine riders to come. Don't take away and restrict us more than we already are. I want my kids and their kids to fully see and enjoy all of Alaska and its wilderness. Don't take that away from our future.
