Comments: I've been a resident of the great state of Alaska for almost 20 years. I've spent my childhood years outdoors, and this outdoor lifestyle was probably one of the key factors that kept me out of trouble. My parents would take my siblings and I fishing, hiking, camping, etc. on a regular basis during the summers, and in the winter we would go snowboarding and ice skating. As I grew up, my older brother bought his first snowmobile, and that is when I was introduced to a new lifestyle. I enjoy snowmobiling like nothing else, and can't even imagine Alaska's Chugach mountains being in danger of becoming a motor free area. This is unalaskan. Closing down the Chugach range will have a negative impact on the economy and the community. If Alaska prohibits snowmobiling, it might as well prohibit hunting and fishing.
