Comments: Hello, AN ALASKAN here, just wondering why I'm seeing these comments from all these tree huggers that aren't even from my state. It's one thing to believe the fact that snowmachiners are ruining the land, but for you guys to indulge on that and try to make a revision restricting access? We have been doing this for how long with wild life and land sustained?? Who the fuck are you people and why are you running things so poorly? I can't believe we are even accepting comments from out of state what kind of sense does that make? I don't vote for California's governed, I don't vote for Montana's mayor? Because I don't know a thing about them I hope you take into consideration that these people do not care about the lifestyle they are taking away from so many people who are passionate about getting onto this land.. thanks for your time
