Comments: I was born an raised in Alaska as far back as I can remember I've been riding snowmobiles. when I was younger it was mostly for accessing trapping areas or hunting I grew up in a vary remote part of the state an we subsisted off the land,

I got older moved to the Fairbanks area

An made a group of friends over the years that became my family I would call them we all loved exploring an playing in the snow all over this great state we call home

First time I ever went to turn agine pass was a rather busy day great snow lots of people everybody out there enjoying the beautiful area all working together, there was a guy I seen an noticed that had a boy maybe 8 years old an you could tell he was teaching him the ropes an he was doing really well for the snow conditions for his age at the time I didn't have any children but I thot to my self how cool is that kinda set a goal in my head that day

Well I have a kid now an I want to be able

To be they guy an take him an show him these places I don't want it to be a place we use to be able to ride the snowmobile today are less impactful to the environment longer tracks lighter weights less trenching less getting stuck. to take this away from everyone after all the effort we put in to keeping the area clean an all working together would be a absolute shame I strongly oppose to losing any of theses areas for my access
