Comments: My wife and I have lived in Alaska for 38 years, raised four kids here and now have 6 grandchildren living in the area. We all enjoy the our of doors and use snow machines, and ATVs to get around the area. We have put many miles on these machines enjoying the outdoors that Alaska provides!! We now understand that force has come to bear to restrict our enjoyment by closing down certain portions of the Chugach Forest for those purposes. We would like to voice our objection to such restrictions that do not benefit anyone living here but only tends to pad the egos of those living on the Outside. If no harm is being done to the environment and no commercial enterprise is harmed then those restrictions should be abandoned! I have spent some time working for the Federal Forest Service and know that it is suppose to be a multiple use organization. Since there is no logging going on in this area, about the only thing that is viable is recreation. I would encourage more use, certainly not less. We now have snow bikes coming on the scene and they are going to put a whole new rider in the area. They are slower that snow machines, but much more manageable thus I think this is another opportunity for those of us who will to enjoy another opportunity to enjoy the outdoors. After reviewing the choices of management I would choose option B.... or just leave it alone. Sincerely Gary and Kathy Moore.
