Comments: As a US citizen we have a right to access our wilderness. The federal government founded by our fore fathers has the responsibility to listen to all of its people! From the minority to the majority of its citizens interestes, and for those generations to come. As the Tongass is the second largest national forest with the majority of it with restricted access by the nature of its geography. It should be recognized by the National Forest administrators that manages access by user groups near populated communities should be heavily weighted in the land use plan for the surrounding NFS managed Tongass land use.

It should also be recognized that in anyone one comment period for public comment should necessarily determine all public input for said plan. Local community user groups should be contacted for input and guidance in plan development. The government is there to serve the people.

A fair and balanced plan from community and user groups iOS the best laid plan.
