Comments: After review I support option B. I've only been in Alaska 9 years but seems like it is more and more difficult to find riding areas. My son has begun riding now as well and I hope to be able to bring him riding in the forest in the near future after some avalanche training. I would like to see access areas increase for not only motorized use but all outdoor use. I mean this is Alaska and we want to be able to take in its beauty in various ways. Thank you.
