As an Alaskan resident, I find the potential restriction of motorized access to areas of our beautiful state quite disheartening. Snowmachine's have been had a large impact on my life and the life of my family for three generations now. I have spent many weekends with family and friends around Alaska enjoying its unparalleled natural beauty, many of those weekends spent within the boundaries of the Chugach. I look back on weekends spent Snowmachining and see some of the best times of my life. I could only hope that future generations have the same opportunity to enjoy Alaska in the same ways I have.

I believe any additional limitations placed upon motorized use (like what is proposed in options C and D) would be a great disservice to the residents of this state, and the many generations to follow.

Respectfully,
Robert Wasser
