

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/30/2018 1:43:43 AM

First name: Nick Goetzmann

Last name: Goetzmann

Organization:

Title:

Comments: It's so deeply sadnening to me to see these public lands at risk. Public lands are for the public and in this area these backcountry areas bring so much to the table. The thing that stands out to me most is the economic benefit of snowmobilers particularly, they bring there family and buddies and they all spend money to benfit local small businesses and the town in general. As well to anyone that says snowmobiles damage the enviroment, its a lie. Snowmobiles are on top of 10-12 ft of snow. No harm no damage done. To conclude being able to use public lands is what so many people base their lifestyle off of, and it brings so many people together through their passion of snowmobiling.