Comments: As a life long born and raised Alaskan I know that this state is all about it wild beauty and the ability to access it. There are multiple user groups that will be affected by the limitation of the snowmobile access to the CNF. Snowmobilers are typically the first responders to accidents in the back country. Snowmobile trails provide access for other user groups. These trails are also used by comercial groups and it could verry possibly have a very large negative impact on the local economy overall.

I oppose ANY limitation of access. Option B
