Comments: Hello,

I agree that limiting certain snowmobile access is a good decision to protect vegetation in the fall and spring time, although restricting access completely is a little harsh. Snow river which is extremely hard to access any time of the year besides winter with a snowmobile is an incredible spot, and people in the area deserve to explore these places when conditions are appropriate. Ultimately I propose limiting motorized vehicles in certain places, but Snow river should remain open so that people can continue to explore the beauty that it offers. Thanks
