I believe the recreation needs to stay open to all users do not discriminate or turn one group against another. In the back country when disaster strikes you need all available resources and if one group is not allowed then you limit the amount of responders. I'm for motorized use for this reason most of the access for non motorized activities can not reach or use the majority of the area. In winter months in Valdez we have a large snow pack keeping us about 6-8 feet above ground level not hurting the terrain.
