Comments: Good afternoon thank you for taking the time to read my thoughts on keeping the cnf and specifically the areas south of Anchorage open to motorized vehicles. The spectacular scenery and natural formations that are formed and left for us to explore and navigate in these areas are a necessity for all motorized user groups. The advancement in Snowmobile technology as well as the back country safety equipment that is being offered today allows the users to travel much safer and efficient than in years past. I grew up in AK since 1972 and the highlights of my youth growing up a mile from the Prospect Heights trail head. In those days we could ride from our house to the elusive upper Huffman/ power line pass trail head and had the times of our lives exploring getting unstuck and building a love for being in the mountains and the access that our snowmobiles allowed us. I have 3 young girls who have enjoyed seeing lost lake on foot this last summer and sleeping on the the trail for three nights; I look forward in years to come showing them the great country that can be enjoyed on a motorized vehicle. please take careful consideration of keeping these riding areas open for motorized exploration and keeping family activities a positive part of the peninsula.
