Comments: The current proposals do not go far enough. Since the wild characteristics of the land, and wildlife habitat, can be disrupted by activities that technically do not include "roads," it would be better to have no surface occupancy in all road-less areas, especially here in our Rampart Range backyards. In addition, there should be no drilling in the areas the forest service itself has designated as "upper tier" road-less areas.

I am a member of the Front Range Environmental Resource Coalition and I fully support their position as outlined in a letter drafted by Chris Amensen to the PSICC Supervisor's Office dated June 10, 2013.

Sincerely,

Randy Shaffer
