Comments: I wanted to urge you to maintain access via the existing dirt road to King Mountain for Paragliding and Hang Gliding. I've used this site for more than 20 years and also often fly over this range in my sail plane (glider) as well as powered single engine planes. Access to this launch site is critical and designating the launch within the considered wilderness boundary will prevent access. I applaud the effort to designate more land as wilderness in the region, however for the very low impact uses of paragliding and hang gliding which allow participants to enjoy the mountain and range with minimal to no impact from the air, I would encourage you to reconsider the wilderness boundary to not include this very special launch and access to it.
