Comments: The Salmon-Challis National Forest is the largest forest in the state, and contains some of its wildest remaining unroaded areas. These areas have been managed as wilderness for years, preserving their exceptional wilderness characteristics. I support permanently protecting them as wilderness for our future.

There is no hike in Idaho quite as iconic as Borah Peak. The tallest mountain in the state is such a memorable experience because of the surrounding undeveloped wildness that you get to see not only from the peak, but throughout the whole trip to the trailhead and on the trail itself. Please consider maintaining, preserving and protecting this icon through wilderness designation.
