Comments: Designating more wilderness area in the Salmon-Challis forest is only for the purposes of fulfilling the environmentalist groups objective for connectivity. Those groups have no intention of every letting anyone use the forests, instead taking over the "protected" areas for their own "economic" agenda, bringing in corporations and developers to design the area into a circus of tourist traps that dictate how the areas is used, for their "green" agenda. There will be little use and the use that is allowed will be controlled via nature hikes, walking or biking, forever omitting any freedom to use the area unless it is to their design. Don't allow these groups to continue their agenda, it is antithetical to our Republic. Do not designate any land in that area as wilderness, protect if for use.
