Comments: Please stop decommissioning roads. If anything there needs to be more access to our wildlands for recreation and fire control. I live in the central Sierra and had to evacuate for the Furgeson Fire last summer. It was a devastating fire for the forest and the wildlife as well as the surrounding communities. The fire could have been better dealt with if the logging roads had been accessible. You need to bring back timber harvest along with other thinning projects along with controlled burns. It is pretty obvious that the leave it alone theory is not working. I used to be a "Tree Hugger" but have become a true environmentalist. I live next to national forest and have seen the excessive overgrowth which harms everything.
