

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 4/25/2019 2:50:27 AM

First name: Deborah

Last name: Willard

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I do not agree with allowing more human traffic in our national parks secluded areas which wildlife need. Wildlife grow and improve our environment supporting us, not the other way around. Just because we don't control our own population doesn't justify spoiling the environment and is in fact detrimental to our own existence. We have enough scientific evidence for that now. As a kid our family saw most of the parks in summers (on foot) and stayed on human pathways so as to respect and not to disturb wildlife. Now we see amazing spectacular videos on NatGeo, Smithsonian and BBC. Animals do not adapt and evolve with human behavior and our "needs" are not needs and are simply "wants". We need to stop our course of "annihilation".