Comments: Thank you for considering my heart-felt comments. Grizzlies are under stress from climate change with food issue alterations with diseased and killed trees..and more. With ever shrinking habitats that isolate populations; more stress = more dead bears and that doesn't even take in account the genetic vulnerability from not being able to have diverse genetics in breeding. It all points to keeping wilderness wild. Simple as that. Don't tempt fate by making it even harder for the bears to live as normal of lives as possible. Do the right thing and protect their environments !
