Comments: No action should be taken! All of the different organizations of the government should be upholding the laws of congress, starting with the 1872 mining laws which are federal laws. Wilderness areas become nothing but a tinder box for forest fires. Look at at all the dead forests by Butte, Mt., if they catch fire the city of Butte won't be able to be saved. That fact has already been established. Log the dead off, right now it's just waste of good lumber,plus it would create a lot of jobs.

There should not be any new wilderness plans. No action necessary.
