Comments: I urge you to Not expand the wilderness designations. This is not good for Montana or the people who live in the impacted areas. Ranchers are the best stewards of the land because their livelihood depends upon it. In my BS degree in Rangeland I have seen many well managed private lands and most honestly government lands are never managed correctly. A healthy ecosystem and forest needs to be actively managed to reduce the catastrophic events of large out of control wildfires which primarily occurs on public lands. More public owned/ designated lands means more money required to manage said lands- or doing less on all acreages with similar budgets. Please think of Montana and reject the proposal.
