Comments: Hello-

My husband and I treasure the wild lands around Montana. We have spent countless hours hiking, biking, and horseback riding throughout the Gallatin National Forest and well beyond. We believe that protecting the forests, lakes, rivers and all the creatures that inhabit them is crucial for the health and well being of the natural world we are so fortunate to live in, and for the people who want to enjoy wildness today, tomorrow, and always.

Many people from various organizations and perspectives have worked tirelessly to come up with compromise solutions to protect these priceless lands. We hope that the Forest Service will consider carefully all options. Personally, we favor Option D.
