Comments: Dear Forest Service,

I live in Bozeman, MT and I am a frequent user (4-5 times a week) of mountain biking trails throughout our local area. I think the number of mountain bike trails in our area needs to increase and not be restricted. Over the last decade mountain biking popularity has sky rocketed and there are towns throughout the United States that build trails and have somewhat of an economy based around bikes. Bozeman and Big Sky, being a popular outdoor recreational area, could greatly benefit from expanding mountain biking trail systems.

The FS should open up more trails for volunteers to come out and work on trails. The mountain biking community is one of the biggest group of volunteers that come out and work on trails.

Thanks for considering my comments.
