Comments: I believe Alternatives B and C make the most sense for the Custer Gallatin Forest. As a Bozeman resident, I see the rapid population growth of Gallatin County, as more people with diverse backgrounds and interests move to region to enjoy the wonderful outdoors and economic opportunities that Montana has to offer. Therefore, I believe a plan that captures the interest of many parties, like alternatives B or C, are most logical, as they provide economic opportunities in limited logging and mineral rights, wildlife protection areas and practices, and support for a wide variety of outdoor recreation. While the population of southwest Montana grows, more people will be drawn to the same area, so it is important to implement a plan that will help disperse and properly regulate people and wildlife to help sustain the forest for future generations.
