why cant local communiti8es exist on their own town owned land. why do they fee they have priority rights on natinoal land which is owned by 328 mllion americans all over this country. allof them should be the benefitees of anything from this forest. the fact is localcommuniti8ee should be saving their own land, not relyinmg on raping the nationalland. all downer trees from natural storms should remain in place. teh forest service maintenance management plan is in fact killing our forests. endless forest need restoration while under the last 40 years of frorest management, showing that the managment is nothign but opportunity to rape the forest instead of protectin it. protecting the forest is the last thing this slanted govt moneymaking agnecy thinks about.

this plan should include the followng:\

zero grazing

no new roads

no hunting or trappiing

no burnig up the place

no chemical applications like glyphosate chloropyrifos atrazine, etc.

no logging

no mining. \buffers to rivers/streams shoudl be 300 ft.

your plan for wildlife habitat stinks because your intrusion into where they try to live means they need to mov eout of there. the last thing wildlife wants is human instrusion with its smashing and trashing of sites basedon what humans want. your actions in fact kill all wildlife and are very destructive of nature. this comment is for the public record please receipt. jean publiee jeanpublic1@yahoo.com

Subject: GMUG Plan Revision: The Working Draft Is Here!

Good morning friends,

Thank you for your patience, the GMUG is pleased to announce that the Working Draft of the Forest Plan is now available for your review!

Although this is an early version, we're asking for your help again before we progress any further. While this preview does not provide standing for the objection process, your input will be much appreciated to help fine-tune the forest plan. As you review, please let us know what plan direction works and what needs improvement to develop the integrated and strategic plan the GMUG deserves. Feedback will be most helpful if received by July 29, and can be submitted via:

- * Online comment tool
- * Email to gmugforestplan@fs.fed.us
- * Fax to 970-874-6698
- * Post to 2250 South Main Street, Delta, CO 81416

Please note the revised schedule below for opportunities to participate!

Next week, we'll hold several webinars, two of each Part 1 and Part 2, to provide context and answer your questions. Recorded sessions will be available afterward on the planning website. Please consider joining us:
