

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 9/5/2019 3:56:10 AM

First name: Jacob

Last name: Cantrell

Organization:

Title:

Comments: If logging in the national forest is always going to be present, can we not try to do it in the least destructive and invasive way possible? If you don't protect the forest, who will? There are logging companies that log with mules and horses and leave a much lighter footprint on the land. I would be happy to send links if needed - what a great example for the national forest to pioneer a change!