Comments: I stand in opposition to the proposed targeting of any old-growth treestands and to this entire process, for being too broad so that we cannot know what might happen to this place that we all rely on for our subsistence needs and economic pursuits. As tourism is the future of our region, not antiquated logging economics in the face of climate destruction, this plan is practically criminal. I stand against it with every fiber of my being. Shame on the decision-makers, may every form of resistance form in opposition to this plan.
