Subject: Re:public comment on federal register no gold mine in the tongass

i went to your link to get an email address but your link does not work. what a shame you put in a link that does not work so that the public is constrained from having a voice. do you do that often? why are you forgetting email comments? or trying to shut them down when they are the most used method of communication in the entire usa at this time in history?

this is nationalland owned by 328 million americans citizens. the expansion of this mine should be stopped. the incursion and devastation to wonderful open space is a hell on earth from the poison spewed by coeur. gold mining is a poisonous mess to nature. everything is killed. land, trees, water, air, wildlife. letting this profiteer destroy more is a horror to behold. its expansion actions are wrongful and shameful. there is no more open land we need to preserve and protect what we have left from these profiteers destroying constantly for their own wallets.no logging should be allowed either. deny land for rocks, tailings, etc. this mine does not appear to be complying with environmental regulations at all imo. no expansions or extensions should be granted to this profiteer. so many acres of poison crap cannot be tolerated. this profiteer doesnt own this land. he is using the lands of the people of the usa and his use is disastrous to public safety and health. the slate lake should be examined again by independent researchers. deny all applications of this profiteer. they have done enough damage to line their own pockets while the world is being decimated. the site now appears to be poison and contaminants. the site itself is worth more than gold in terms of its value to humans and to nature and to wildlife and to all things living.

all the species that try to live in this area are suffering like bear, deer, otters, marten, wolves, eagles, mt goats, sapsuckers.many of these species appear nowhere else on earth and need to get the highest protection. they are not getting that with this mine in the area. i dont see any monies put away for reclamation and dont see any reclamation done yet - all of your reclamation plans are in the future so that they are highly speculative imo at this point.

where exactly is the report to the us forest service and why is there no access to it for the public to see. if you are reporting to the forest service, why is that report hidden from public view. sneak secrets? clearly salmon are dying from the contamination. they require clean water.

again, deny all expansion and watch the damage this profiler is doing instead of letting any run roughshod. this comment is for the public record please receipt. it is bad to have gold mines when the land itself is worth more than gold. this comment is for the public record please receipt. jean public1@yahoo.com
