Comments: my concern is the pecos river, the stretch north from the town of pecos. this is a classic case of loving it to death. it is in serious need of stream bank restoration. there is soil compaction, no vegetation warm water you name it. folks can and do park vehicles of all sizes right next to the pecos. this should be of the highest priority for whom ever the decision maker is. i believe that one criteria for selection of the pecos is population and use especially in the warm months. it is close to Albuquerque and santa fe. it is kinda embarrassing that the usfs is managing this and responsible for the pecos and we have let it get to this point. perhaps even some good will come out of seeing and recreating in a healthy river from the public. i hope you all can do this and i applaud your nepa efforts but it is way over due, thanx
