Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/18/2019 8:00:00 AM
First name: Nancy
Last name: Ritzenthaler
Organization:
Title:
Comments: Alaskan forests, including the Tongass Forest, and some of the most wild and habitat rich places on earth. Logging in these areas requires road building, and will damage one of the last great places. With a university degree in forestry and business management, I am in favor of logging in many places where roads already exist. However this pristine habitat should absolutely not be logged- better forest management of existing accessible forests is a better solution.

BS Forest Management, University of Washington

MS Management and Corporate Strategy, MIT Sloan School

[Position]

[Position]