Comments: This is really simple. LEAVE THE ROADLESS RULE ALONE. There should be NO EXPLOITATION of the Tongass National Forest for private profit. That opening the forest to logging or other private for-profit pursuits is simply not acceptable. If there are people living in that area who need work, urge them to move to an area of the state where work is already available. We cannot sacrifice our precious natural lands and resources just so someone can have a conveniently located job. We have to set priorities and set the priority of preserving the Tongass as-is, along with all the wildlife that call it home, above human interests. Taking the "easy way out" is not the answer. Doing what's right is.
