

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/19/2019 8:00:00 AM

First name: Rebecca

Last name: Johnson

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Protecting old-growth forests is crucial for mitigating the catastrophic effects of climate change, effects Alaska is already reeling from. The landmark 2001 Roadless Area Conservation Rule is a critical component in the fight against climate change. It must not be weakened in Alaska or anywhere else.

Weakening this policy in Alaska will cause irreparable harm to local and indigenous communities, Southeast Alaska's economy, salmon fisheries, Alaska's tourism industry, and wildlife. The rule continues to receive overwhelming support in Alaska and across the nation. It is not the will of the people.

Protect our environment, our climate, and our creatures. Keep the Roadless Rule strong!

[Position]

[Position]