

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/20/2019 8:00:00 AM

First name: jamie

Last name: Dos Santos

Organization:

Title:

Comments: The USDA as stated below as its true definition, should be protecting the land from future development and clearing of tree's. My family vacations in Alaska very specifically for the wildlife and the forests, this rule of exempting the roadless rule, #54511 is endangering the prestige forest and its wildlife. As a tax payer and citizen, conservation of land is conserving our well being, this is endangering what can happen to the forest and therefore us as citizens.

The USDA Forest Service (hereafter Forest Service) manages National Forest System (NFS) lands to maintain and enhance the quality of the environment to meet the Nation's current and future needs. Forest Service land management supports recreation, water, timber, fish, wildlife, wilderness, aesthetic values and a variety of resource development activities for current and future generations. As a leader in natural resource conservation, the Forest Service provides direction for the management and use of the Nation's forests, rangeland, and aquatic ecosystems under its jurisdiction.

[Position]