

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/20/2019 8:00:00 AM

First name: Jonathan

Last name: Rizzardi

Organization:

Title:

Comments: The Roadless Rule is critical to the preservation of this country's few remaining virgin forests. The consequences of creating exemptions from the rule or abolishing the rule can be catastrophic for the environment, both locally and on a larger scale. Meanwhile, ample timber is available in non virgin forests. We have to begin taking a more responsible approach toward resource management in considering future generations, and our own.

[Position]

[Position]