Comments: Please, leave the Alaska Roadless Rule completely intact and protect the Tongass National Forest from any and all industry destruction so that it can continue to protect us.

If you're not fully aware of the sweeping and dire environmental consequences of allowing any kind of development into the Tongass I urge you to look into it.

I get a knot in the pit of my stomach when I think about the threat to critical forests like this one, which is a direct threat to the habitability of this planet for all of us, and not in some distant future but NOW. We cannot afford to lose the Tongass. Especially when there are much safer and more long-term ways to support Alaska's economy.

I could go on about my concerns and about the insanity of a system that's even considering this horrifying move, but you get the gist.

Thank you for considering my comment.
