Comments: Hello,

In regards to Alaska Roadless Rulemaking #54511, I am strongly opposed to any loosening of the Roadless Rule regulations. The Tongass national forest should remain protected from logging and road construction. These old growth trees are irreplaceable and benefit the entire country as a carbon sink. To foolishly destroy the forest for the economic gain of the few in the logging industry is short sighted and irresponsible. You should be ashamed of yourselves for advancing this proposal.
