Comments: save the Tongrass

We must continue to preserve these vital wilderness and the precious wild life that call them home. Our planet is rapidly being destroyed and so many vital species are disappearing. Someday it will be the humans suffering with no clean air or water to survive. Stop the destruction of mother earth .

We cannot let this administration do any more harm. No money in the world will be able to replace the beauty of these sacred places and the wondrous ecosystem balance these species do for us after we have depleted all the resources every living being needs to exist.
