Comments: I am absolutely against opening up our public lands to private industry to rape. It is one thing for our Forestry Services to manage forests and wildlands, its another to allow businesses who dont practice preservation to destroy ecological preservations. Is no one looking at what is happening with the rainforests? Do we really want to destroy that which we cant recreate? I come at this from an Independent political ideology, and looking at both sides of the equation I cant see how this is good in the long run.
