Comments: Dear sweet mother of god please do not do this. There is ample logging forest available already. And, how about cutting back in the first place and replace all paper products with easy grow industrial hemp fiber? Use some common sense here. One acre of hemp yields the same pulp as four acres of forest, and it regrows four times a year! No pesticides or fertilizers needed. Its a no brainer. With all that forest not being used for paper products, that opens a larger section of the sector for logging without adding additional acreage or logging. Please do not let this pass.
