Comments: Please consider all of the negative impacts and minor gains that would come of this venture. We are past the turning point where the scales are tipped towards climate change. The economic payoff doesnt justify the amount of money it would take to facilitate the logging, and the environmental impacts that would follow. With the jungles burning in South America, now is the worst possible time to remove any forestry that can help offset CO2 levels. Please think of future generations, stop facilitating our own extinction, in the name of money.
