Comments: I don't see a reason to open this to logging. There are few pristine areas of wilderness left. This should be protected. But I'm certain regardless of what the public wants you will find justification due to the administration's of version to the will of the people and pandering to business interest. There's little Financial incentive to open this up at least from a public good standpoint. This only will benefit a very select few of private individuals and in no way benefit the country. The area should remain free from logging so that future Generations can Marvel at Nature's Wonder.
