Comments: Can you do something about the cows on the highway on the Forest? I love the views along the highway and how close the trees are to the highway, but the whole line of black cows walking down the road is a safety hazard.

Can you have a rule that the cow owners have to keep their cows off the highway so visitors can experience the forest without having to be afraid of crashing into a dumb cow?

I also didn't appreciate having cows wander through our campsite in the middle of the night. If the forest allows camping within 150 feet of roads, can the forest then prohibit cows from being within 150 feet of roads. Then we won't have any conflicts between people and cows.

Thanks for the opportunity to comment.
