Comments: I am deeply disturbed by the seemingly endless attempts by profiteers to destroy everything pristine and pure. The U.S. has lost nearly all of its ancient forests mostly within the span of 150 years.

These forests represent entire ecosystems that are destroyed on behalf of corporate industry in pursuit of profits. These ancient forests will not come back in our lifetimes or in the lifetimes of future generations. We must protect the last remnants of our ancient forests for posterity and the plants and animals that reside within them.

Please protect the Tongass which is one of the last intact ancient forests in our country. Don't let corporate greed take this amazing forest from us.
