Comments: Please do not destroy these sensitive ecosystems with additional development. As someone that grew up in the forest and moved to the city, I can attest to the need of these untouched pieces to offset the impact from us city dwellers. Though I will never visit the area and most will not, I firmly believe that our nation will be better off with this arrangement. This country is built on diversity and the forest service needs to recognize that natural resources such as this provide a diverse environment that is rapidly disappearing.
