Comments: As a person who has worked with federal agency directors, insurance companies and scientists and can speak from an environmental impact perspective; I would vehemently oppose allowing any logging roads and would opt for the only alternative, Alternative 1. Leave it as is. Biodiversity is already being impacted by mass human activity and this is one of the last refuges left in the world. Leave it that way. And allowing logging is just a step and will be a justification later for further development and settlement of outposts and towns. Leave it roadless.
