Comments: The purpose of this comment is to address the utter disregard that you, the USSR style Forest Service has for the survivability of the communities in and around the A/S forests in Arizona and New Mexico. Before the Forest Service completely lost their minds and caved to the lunacy of the liberal, these communities were thriving and growing on service based economies that included logging and cattle ranching.

You slowly took all of that away for spotted owls, leaping lizards, spotted frogs (that never were in the habitat you claimed), spinedace and spikedace minnows and what ever other extremely more important than human creature existed out there.

Many of these communities have been reduced to "tourism based economies", and if it weren't for the coal-fired power plants (which the liberal nut-case environmentalists are also after), these communities would dry up and blow away. I know that breaks you hearts, because that is also one of the goals of you liberal extreme environmentalists. You would like to see all of us driven to the cities where our very existence wouldn't pollute "your forest"!

I guess that one question that I have, is "Where did the lumber and materials come from to build your house, and where does the electricity come from to light and heat your houses.

If you care about your own freedom, and the freedom of your families, you better educate yourselves about where these mandates and rules are really coming from. Start with "Agenda 21"!
