Comments: My name is Naomi Zurcher and I live in Brooklyn, New York.

AS a forestry professional for 40 years, I say NO!!! Rolling back the Roadless Rule to allow the unprecedented rape and plunder of America's heritage - our natural National Treasures is NOT within the USDA Forest Service's purview or job description. The Tongass belongs to ME and all Americans - not YOU. You are supposed to be responsible for protecting it for generations to come, not plundering it for the sake of more ill-gotten gains at the expense of our environment. STOP PILLAGING AND PLUNDERING AND START MANAGING BASED ON BEST SCIENCE AND SUSTAINABLE FORESTRY PRACTICES. PROTECT OUR ROADLESS RULE.

I am writing to express strong opposition to efforts to roll back the Roadless Area Conservation Rule (Roadless Rule) in Alaska or elsewhere. The Roadless Rule was implemented with unprecedented public support to protect some of our nations most pristine public lands, including large parts of the Tongass National Forest. You must choose the No Action alternative. Any other choice would ignore overwhelming public support and harm Alaskans, including Alaska Natives, and taxpayers across the nation.

In Southeast Alaska, tourism accounts for 28% of employment and generate an annual $1 billion in economic benefit, making it far more of an economic driver than the timber industry, which is less than 1% of the regional economy.

Any choice but the No Action alternative would also put wildlife and critical habitat at risk, threaten access to clean water, and be a step in the wrong direction on climate change jeopardizing Alaskans at a time when the state already faces severe challenges related to rising temperatures. I urge you not to abandon the Roadless Rule in Alaska and instead to put the public interest above corporate profits by choosing to keep the rule in place unchanged.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Regards, Naomi Zurcher
